

The Wheels on the Bus go Round and Round

Driven under its own power, the WT bus was loaded onto a trailer supplied by Wilson Equipment. Then delivered to Henderson's Line-Up to have brakes, suspension, and alignment work done to meet safety standards.

Our relationship with Henderson's Line-Up (Robert and Barb) goes beyond helping us with our bus project. They have partnered with us, they are prayer warriors for us, and they are Walking Tall family.

"One of my prayers is to find ministries that fit our unique place in the marketplace. God answered prayers one day when I discovered Walking Tall at one of their outreaches in downtown Medford. They had a 62 International bus they were putting together on a Chevy P-32 motorhome chassis. I was delighted and pleased to help Tom Smurzynski and his crew with some parts and other aftermarket goodies. That is cool, but the better part of the story is the great relationships at WT. Tom and Judy's passion to mentor and disciple young men is so refreshing. The mentors I have met have been a blessing to me. I got the privilege of bringing Gavin to see him open up and grow; learning to weld at 11 years old was huge for him. The mentors and other young men love and accept him. His grandma faithfully takes him there weekly when I am out of town. WT is desperately needed, as the trades are not funded in public schools and not available to many homeschoolers. The instruction in the Lord's way will set the foundation for these young men all the days of their lives. I recommend anyone who has a trade to counsel prayerfully, to invest in WT. Strong men are needed in our society, as the family and what God wants are under attack. I pray a blessing on Tom, Judy, all the mentors, and the body of Walking Tall."
