Turning Boys to Men

As C.S. Lewis famously said, "Integrity is doing the right thing, even when no one is watching."

Helping parents discover their child's purpose and path in life begins with integrity. Walking Tall's village has a unique role in helping teen boys find how God has equipped them to use their gifts positively.

*To grow a pleasing soul,
Water the flowers in someone else's garden,
and have faith that the seeds will grow.*

~Judy

My name is Mike Gardiner, I'm the parent of Ryan Gardiner, who spent a couple of years at Walking Tall, and is now a U.S. Marine.

They say it takes a village to raise a child, and I thank God for the village where I live. Sometimes parents fail at raising and teaching their kids, it's not because they're bad parents, but some just need a little extra help from the village. It's good to have other people and resources to help them, and when my wife and I found Walking Tall, we found a gold mine in that group of people.

Tom and Judy pour their heart and soul into families around Southern Oregon, by helping boys learn more about becoming men. So, if some of you young men are struggling a little in life and think there's no hope and reason, keep coming to Walking Tall; you'll start to see purpose and meaning in your own life, and you'll meet other young men who may become lifelong friends.

Stay tuned next week to hear from Ryan.

For I know the plans I have for you declares the Lord, plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and future.

Jeremiah 29:11

Thank you for your support and prayers!

*If you haven't ever supported Walking Tall, please consider a one time donation or regular monthly donation to support and continue offering many skills to these young men. Thank you so much!
