Investing in Others

My younger brothers came to the Walking Tall program about five years ago. Around 2020 Rogue Community College went online only, which wouldn't work for me, and I needed a job. My dad, a mentor at WT, knew they were preparing to start the WT Redwood business and introduced me. I began working for them in September 2020; Working with my hands, this job has taught me a lot about woodworking. I enjoy the craftsmanship, and because of the amazing group of guys at WT, I began junior mentoring on Monday nights.

A big advantage for me is the focus on faith; it's great for the youth. Unfortunately, many kids don't have good roots. However, the role models at WT share the faith in a positive way. Thankfully I had good parents who taught me, but I have a lot of friends who didn't have positive role models. Seeing these men teach the boys to not only become men but become good Christian men has been a blessing.

I want to improve on being a steadfast defender of the faith. In the past, I haven't had the courage or the skills to defend my faith when I should. A lot of times our faith is attacked, and I want to make sure when it is, there is someone there to defend it.

My current focus has been finding a more specific purpose to what I've been called to do. When I was at RCC, focusing on biology, I was also volunteer teaching at my church, and that helped me find out what I enjoyed. I realized teaching could be more than a subject, like how WT teaches life skills, and how to be good men, while being a Christian role model. So, I'm currently focusing on a goal of getting back into college, graduating, and teaching at a Christian school, so I can impact lives for Christ.

He must hold firm to the trustworthy word as taught, so that he may be able to give instruction in sound doctrine and also to rebuke those who contradict it.
