Newsboys Concert Crew

I liked watching the drummer play during the show. I'm glad I got to go to the concert. It was fun to learn how to disassemble the stage, and learn how the giant screen worked. Also, It was really cool to meet the Newsboys. Trey

It was an amazing concert with some songs I grew up on when I was younger and many newer songs as well. I enjoyed working with all the young men, as they were very hard working and helpful the whole time! We disassembled the entire stage with many of the young guys helping. Chad, Bill, Ken and I helped disassemble the giant screen that hangs from a truss. That was fun to get be able to do. It was an honor to meet the Newsboys and get pictures with them. Can't wait to take my kids to more events like this in the future! Tim

Sunday night the Walking Tall Guys had a great opportunity to serve at the Newsboys concert. It was a great opportunity to grow in friendships, and to practice serving others. The young men showed excellent character as they helped pack things up from a world class concert and saw how much goes into a professional production like this Jeremy

The Newsboy's concert was the first concert I've ever been to. I would have never gone if it weren't for Walking

Tall. It was SO MUCH FUN. I thought it was normal at concerts to get to meet the band, but it shocked my family when I came home and told them, I shook their hands. I even came home with the drummer's drumstick. Thank you, Walking Tall, for a night I will never forget. Luka

"Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven." Matthew 5:16

Two ways God was glorified through WT. (1) As we were wearing our shirts, how many times did we answer the question "What is Walking Tall?" (2) As well over 100 people were waiting after the concert to get their picture taken with the Newsboys, they were watching us stack the chairs and tear down the stage. Compare that image with that of young men in many parts of the nation doing the "smash and grab". Marty

I grew up with Newsboys. Gods Not Dead and Entertaining Angels were my anthems. But getting to help with their concert was a whole new experience. We gained a new perspective of concerts by getting up close with the equipment. And getting to shake hands with Michael Tait, Duncan Phillips, Jody Davis and Adam Agee was a lifelong dream come true. Matthew

Thank you for praying for Walking Tall

This was really cool because it was my first concert. I had fun taking down all of the equipment, and meeting the band. Logan

The young men and mentors were a great asset to the fairgrounds team, the musicians, T&S Event Services and the community. The team worked swiftly and efficiently while helping take down an estimated over 800 chairs, helping with the dismantling of the stage and all the electrical wiring, cords etc. The Walking Tall crew were given instructions from the fairgrounds and T & S Event workers and readily jumped in to dismantle everything and organize it. They helped load equipment into trucks and organized more to go on bigger trucks. Any time one of the event organizers asked for bodies, there were multiple Walking Tall members reacting immediately without hesitation to help out. It was like an army of men and made me proud of them all including my grandson Evan. I am certain that this saved many hours of work for the fairgrounds team and T & S Event Services. Speaking with The Fairgrounds Manager Rob Holmbeck and the Fairgrounds Maintenance Lead Les, they were very impressed with the Walking Tall Team and so appreciative. Good job Walking Tall. You made a difference on this great day celebrating Jesus. Bob
