YARD SALE QUOTES

I enjoy the process of learning and creating items to sell. Seeing various wood and metal projects at the yard sale was great. The yard sale was a positive experience, and I am grateful for the community's support of our program

I'm happy to be here at WT and learn. It's great that others support us. At WT, we make friends, but we interact more at the camping trip. This is my third year at WT, and I'm finding it easier to talk to people at the yard sale. The community helps keep it free so more kids can participate, and that's great.

Having people come to the yard sale was an encouraging experience. Many were intrigued, appreciated what we were doing, and were generous. It was humbling, and we're hopeful for the future of this ministry. As mentors, seeing the fruits of our labor come to fruition and watching the young men interact with others was rewarding. The preparation for the event was a team effort. Planning, yard work, ladies helping price items to sell, and we're grateful for everyone's hard work. It all came together beautifully, and we're excited about the upcoming fishing trip. Getting away from everything and reconnecting with nature, God's creation is re-energizing and helps us appreciate the simpler things in life, and I'm looking forward to the upcoming trip.

We interact with new people during the yard sale and improve our sales skills. Some who didn't know about Walking Tall saw our signs and came in to learn how it supports our fishing trip, which is fun. I don't get to do this activity very often. We also get to spend a lot of time with friends. I'm grateful for Walking Tall.

The community's support for the fishing trip means better food than just hotdogs, which is a big plus. It's great to see young men working on projects, selling them, and gaining confidence by approaching and speaking to people they don't know. It's encouraging for both the young men and their mentors to see people willing to pay for the projects they have made. Logan says he loved to see all the woodwork items for sale, and he really enjoyed going up to people and offering help, I thought that it was fun.

Each one should test their own actions. Then they can take pride in themselves alone, without comparing themselves to someone else, <sup>5</sup> for each one should carry their own load. Galatians 6:4-5
