Obstacles to Opportunities

The story of Kaleb and his older brother's early childhood is a difficult one to discuss. Despite Kaleb's limited recollection of his early childhood, it is evident that the obstacles they faced were substantial. Fortunately, they were both adopted into a loving family. Mutually their parents and Walking Tall are committed to helping them transition to respectful young men, making positive, conscious choices.

Kaleb's older brother recently moved out, which left Kaleb feeling his absence. However, Kaleb has found comfort and guidance from trusted mentors at Walking Tall. He has shown impressive personal growth and a sense of belonging. Kaleb has also contributed hard work to special projects and has become an essential part of the Walking Tall family. He has also made numerous friends at Walking Tall, always ready to extend a friendly handshake when saying hi and eager to assist the ladies in the kitchen whenever necessary. We make a difference by helping those around us so that they can in turn help others, much like Kaleb is doing.

From the fruit of their lips people are filled with good things, and the work of their hands brings them reward.

Proverbs 12:14
