They Remember

Reg has been mentoring at Walking Tall for ten years. He mentions, "We are focused on working with young men and guiding them to become gentlemen who follow the teachings of Christ." Being involved in youth ministry over 30 years ago with his wife had an impact, but not as profound as his experience with Walking Tall, where the young men continue to return.

"These young men are increasingly curious about Christianity. Many churches are not effectively teaching Christianity, and young men transitioning to adulthood are especially vulnerable." Reg believes that our government has many dishonest individuals and that this program is crucial. He sees young men as the future leaders and appreciates the new mentors who come in to learn from the older ones. These mentors work closely with the young men to build them up. He knows that this is a process where the younger generation learns from the men and then goes on to mentor others.

Reg reflects on the joy in mentoring Spencer several years ago. When Spencer first came to WT, he would hardly talk. For some time, he latched on to him. Reg said, "It's better if young men choose the mentor rather than the other way around. Spencer has grown up and is now making good Christian videos. Sometimes, we wonder if we are making a positive impact on their lives, but we are indeed making a difference."

"They remember."

Please keep Reg in your prayers as he has undergone a major, life-altering surgery!
