INSPIRING LEADERSHIP

Trey has been improving his skills in the woodshop for several years, largely due to the guidance of his father, who serves as a valuable mentor. He emphasizes that there is no favoritism; however, his dad has noticed that Trey voluntarily helps other young men, demonstrating the junior mentoring skills that Walking Tall inspires in many young men. Trey values spending time with his family and fondly remembers his proudest moment at Walking Tall was when he crafted a chessboard out of four different types of wood and gifted it to his grandfather.

At 16, Trey participates in track and cross country at Cascade Christian High School. He has noticed that the young men at Walking Tall are more mature than his classmates, which has helped him grow as well. He appreciates the friendly and supportive environment here, where he attends twice a week. After completing an invitation-only cerakote ceramic coatings class at NIC, he's eager to learn more and plans to work in the powder coating department one of his nights at Walking Tall.

Do not be conformed to this world, but be transformed by the renewal of your mind, that by testing you may discern what is the will of God, what is good and acceptable and perfect.

Romans 12:2
